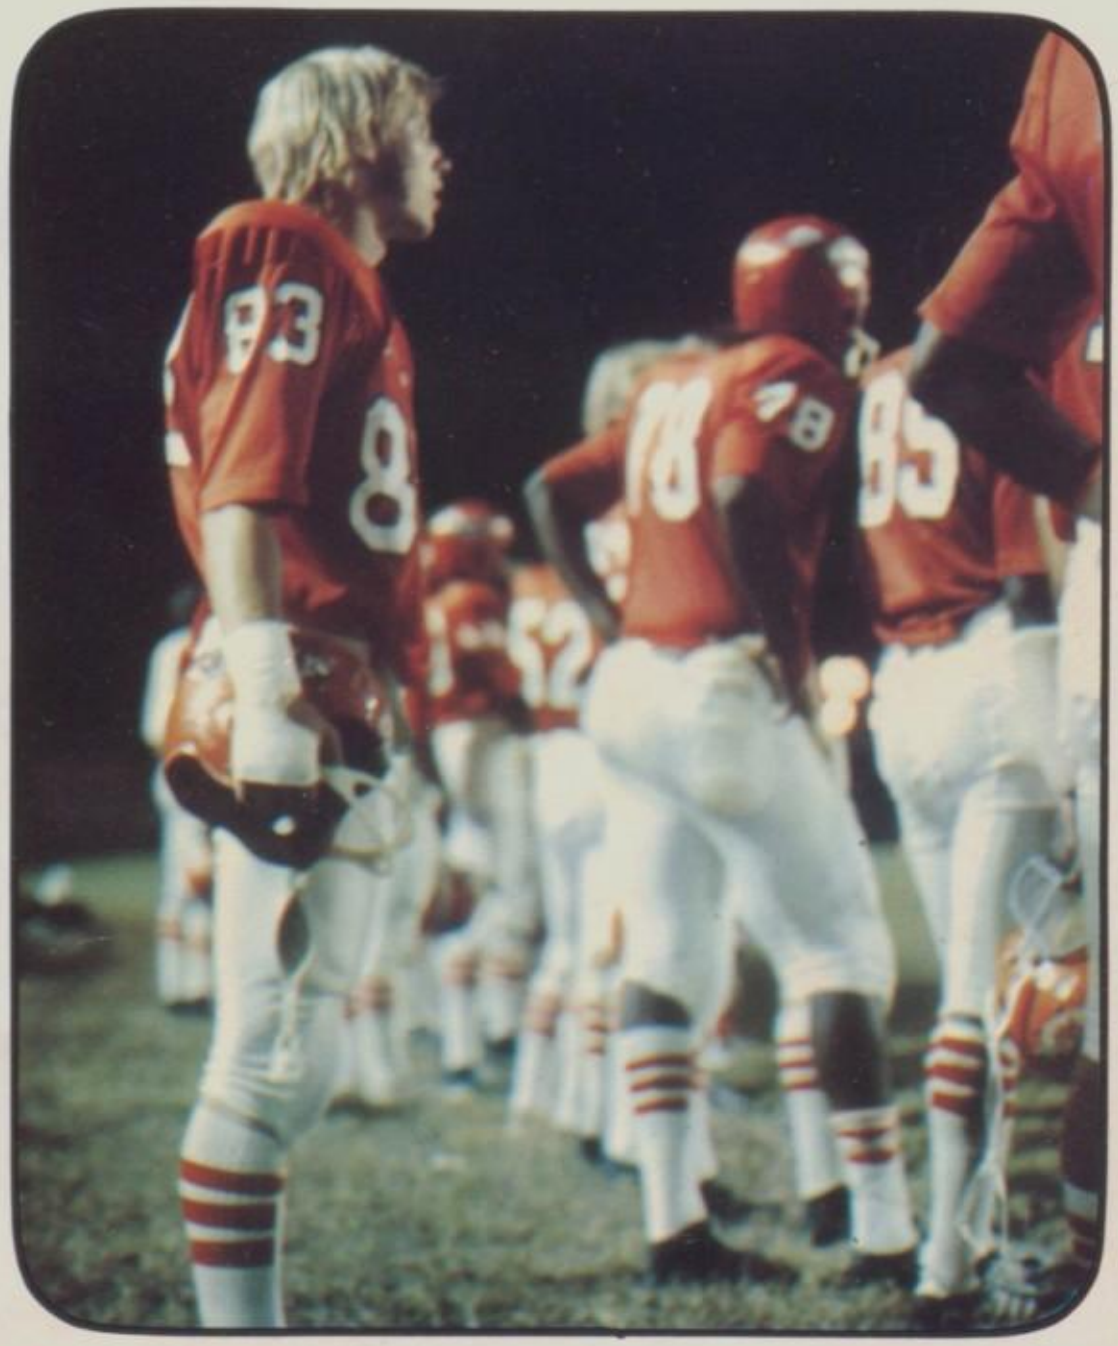
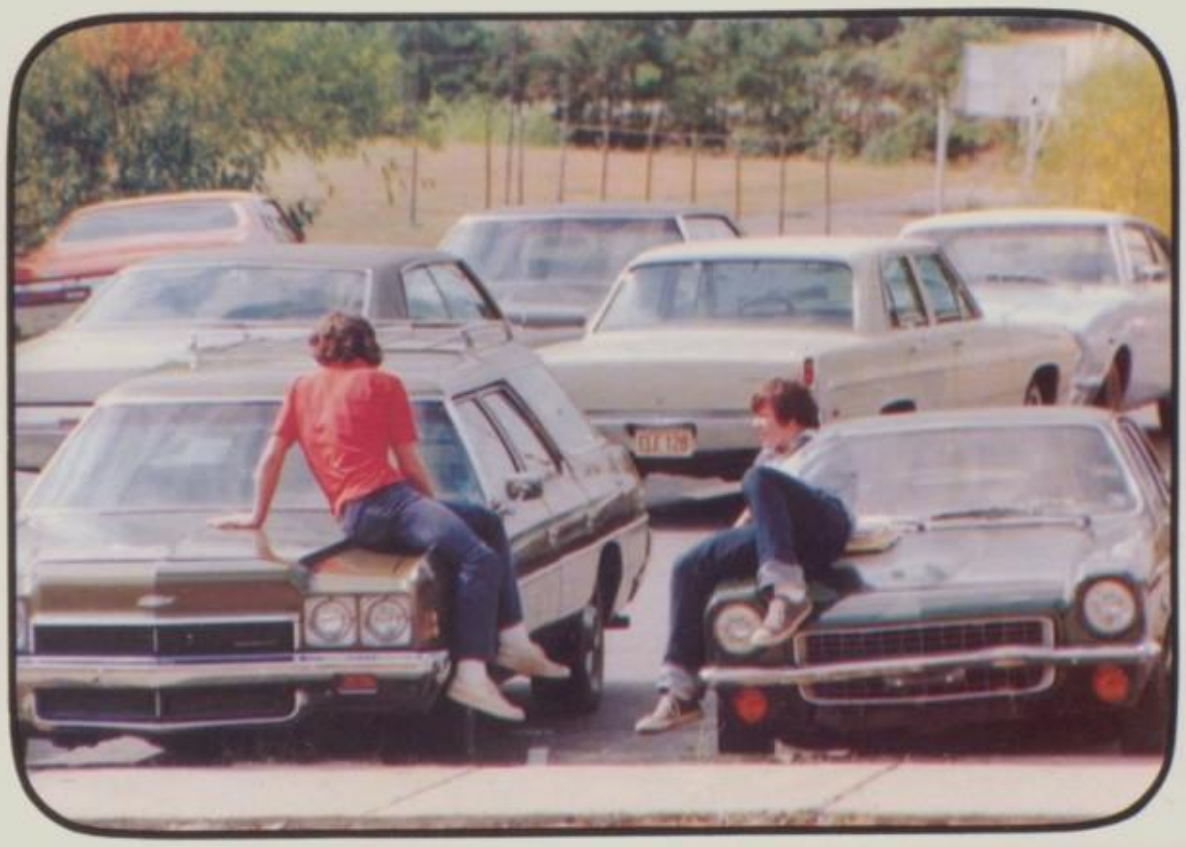
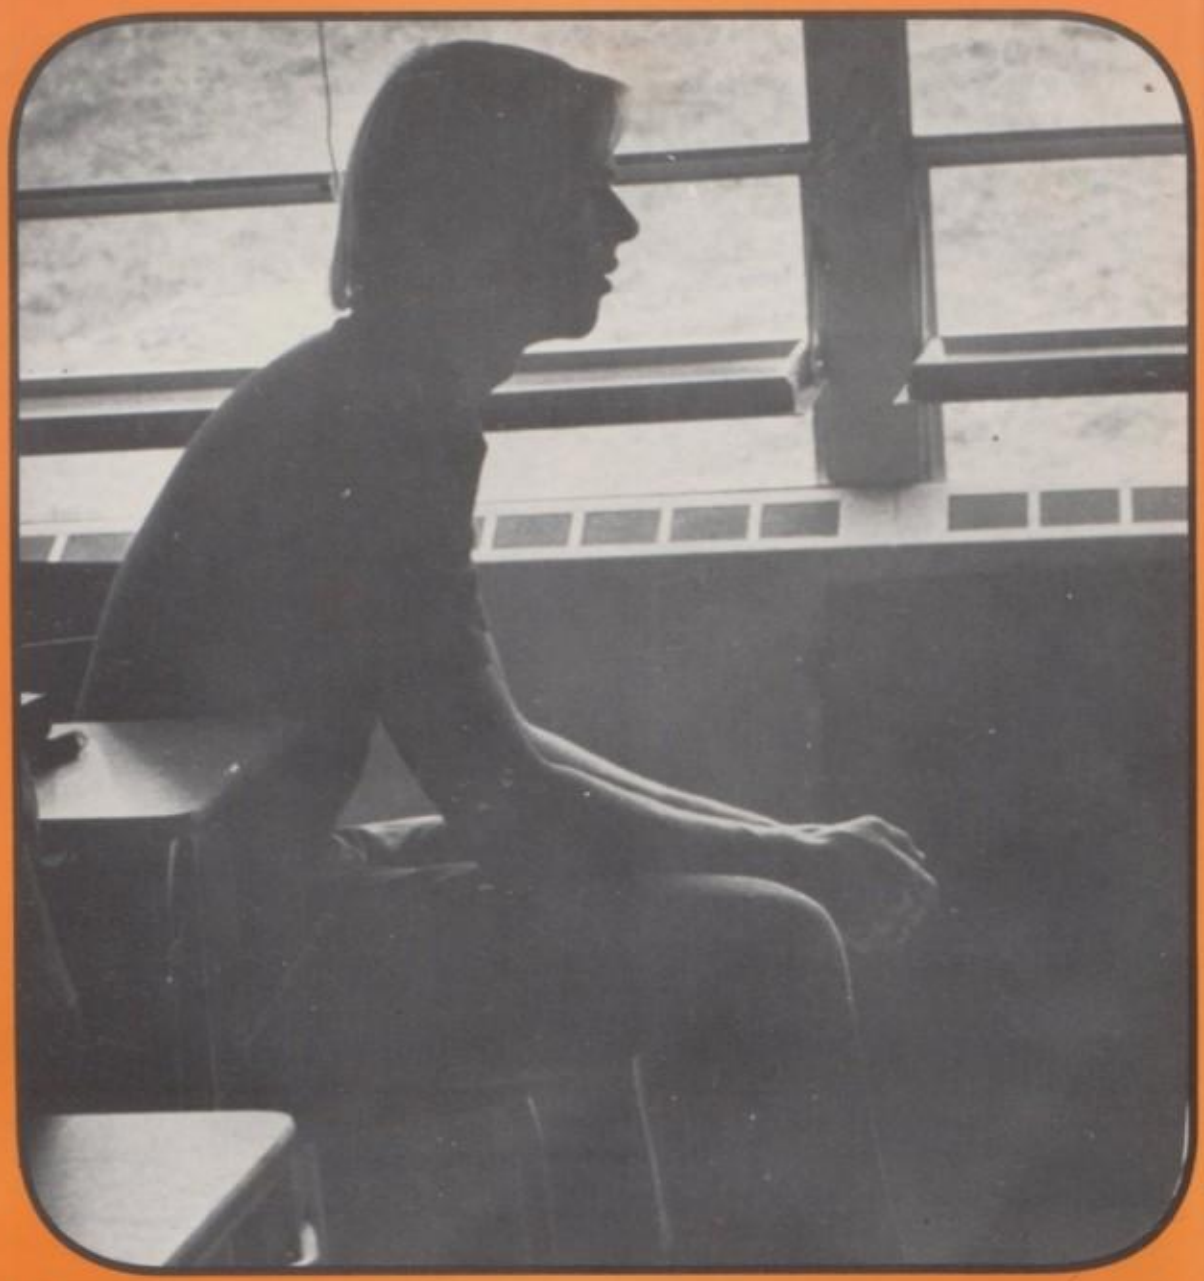
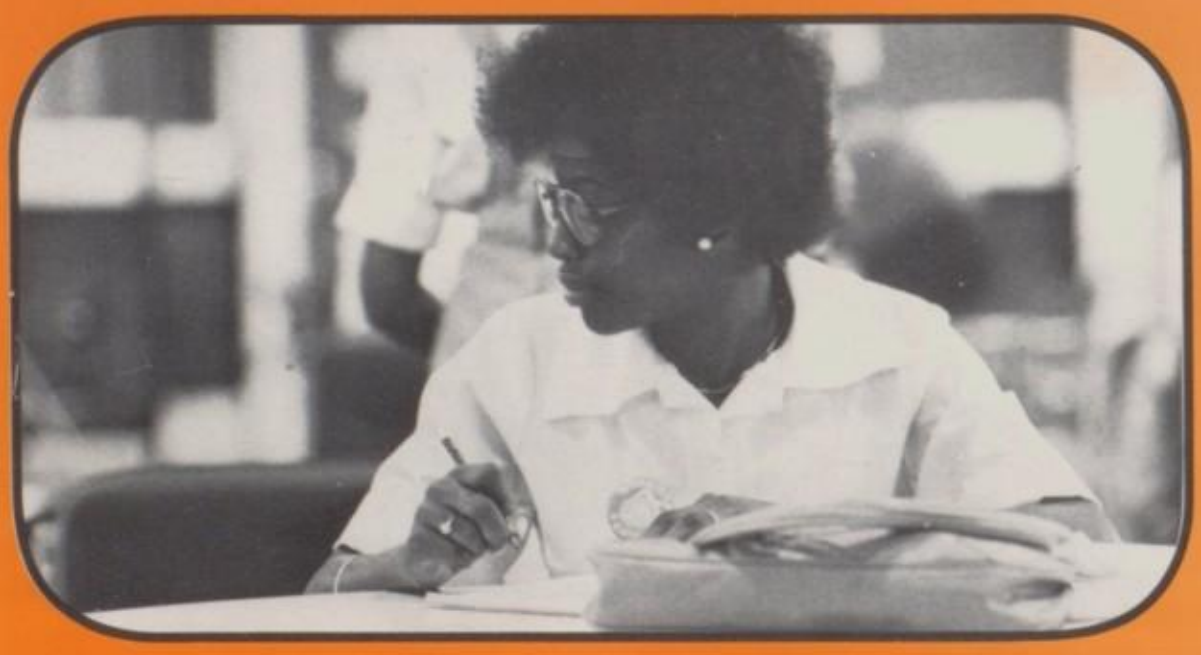
Building a Program . . .

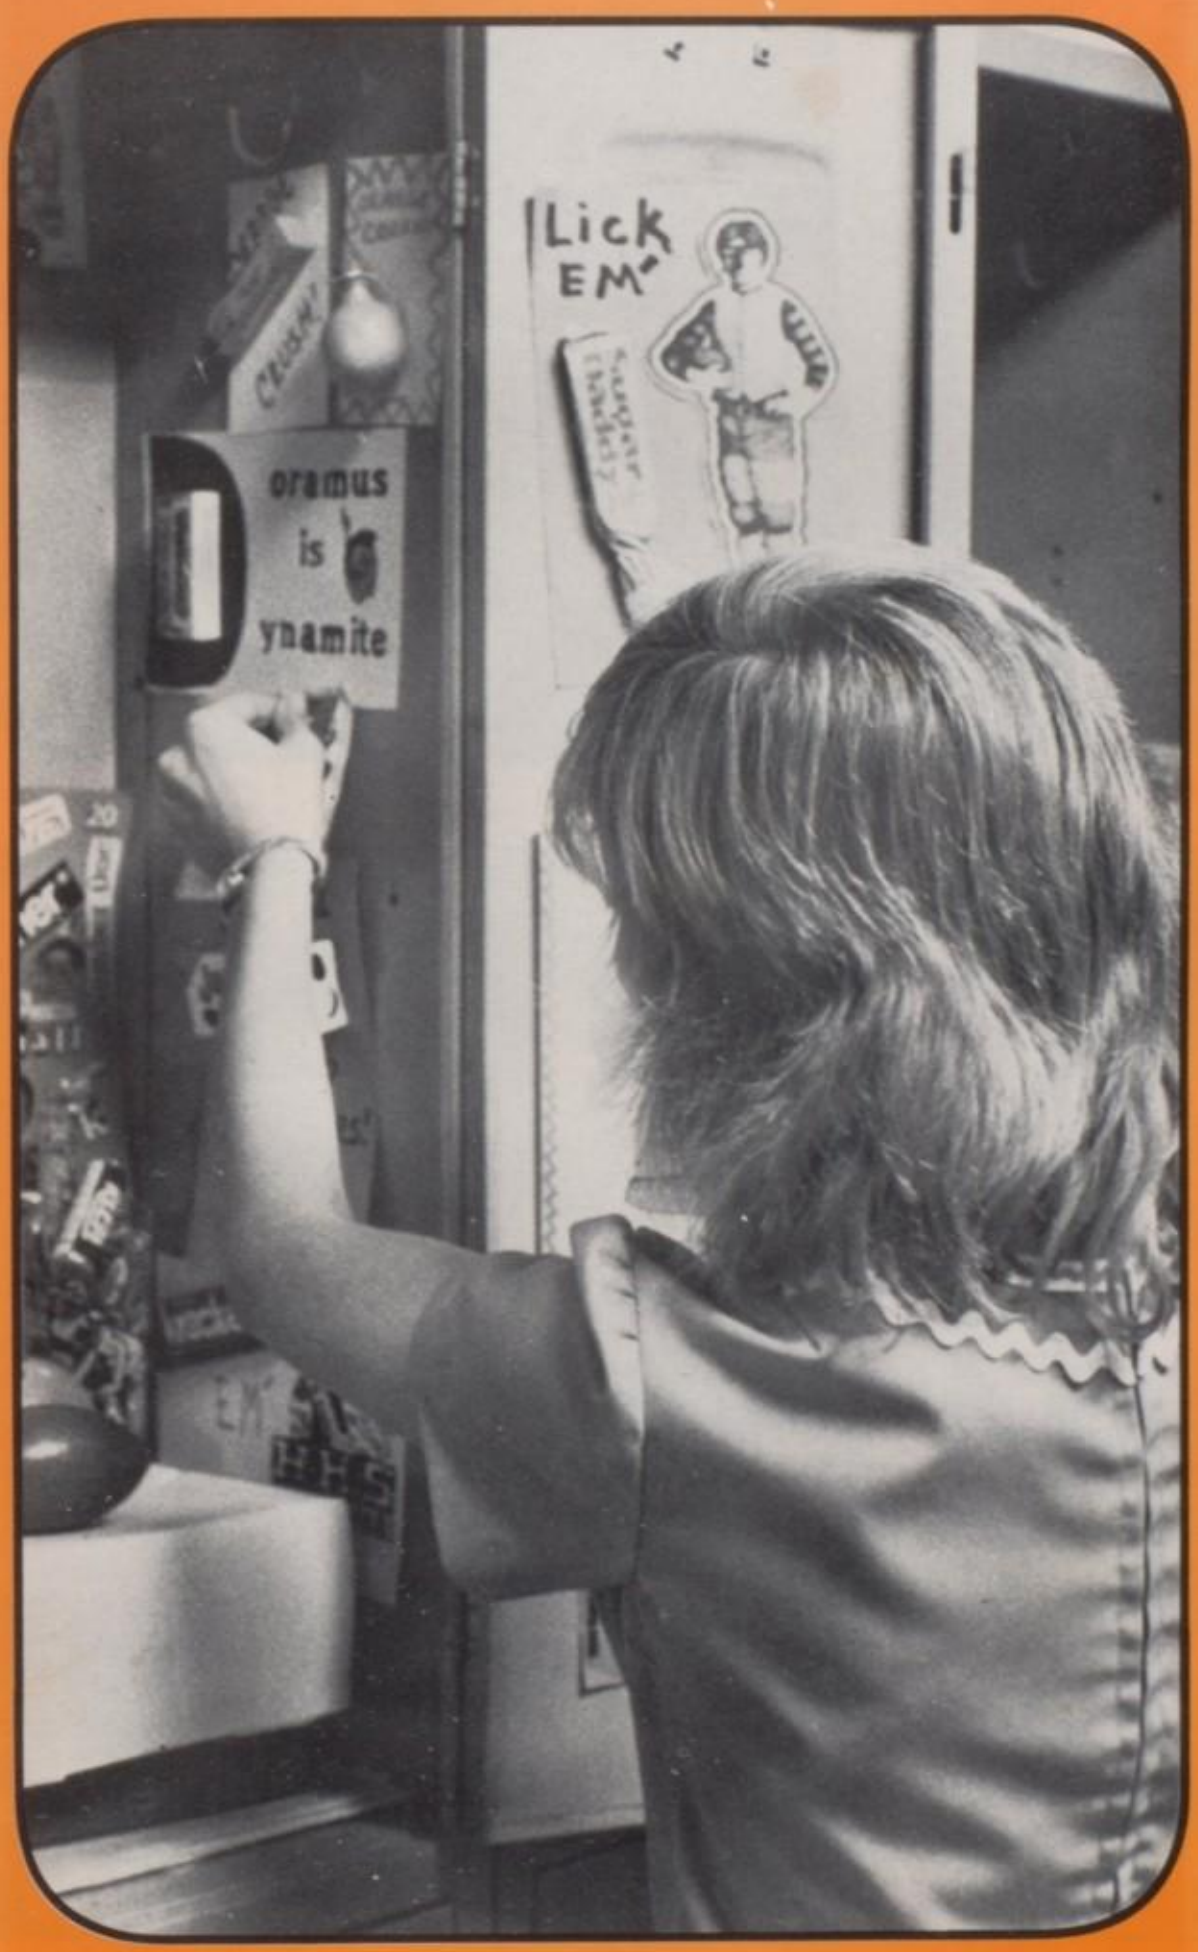
We came to Hall on September 3 to start a whole new ballgame of learning. We adjusted to a pilot program that gave us more freedom than before, but also required more self-discipline.











Building a Way . . .

We realized that we had the capacity to be what we wanted to be. This was reflected through our choice of study while we were in high school, and through our choice of friends. Some of these friendships would last for years to come.

Building a Heritage . . .

The celebration of our nation's 200th birthday made us realize that our ancestors paid a price for the freedom we enjoy. We wanted to preserve this heritage for future generations.

Building an Education . . .

Education placed high on our list of accomplishments, and we had the facilities to prepare us for any field we wanted to enter. Our education was not always limited to the classroom. Experience proved to be the best teacher.

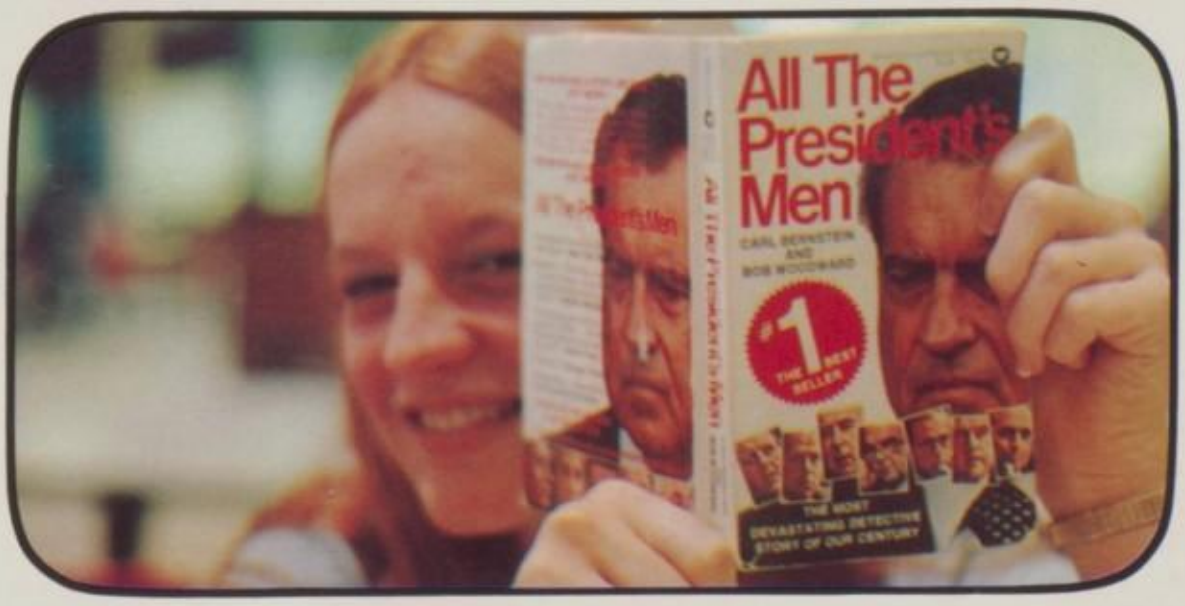
Building an Understanding . . .

Through involvement in special interests, we sought to benefit those around us; we wanted to make the world easier to live in. We discovered that understanding ourselves was the first step in understanding others.



Building an Image . . .

Outside of school we remembered who we were representing. Whether it was a Sunday afternoon football game, a party, or just "cruising" we kept that "Give 'em Hall" spirit.

Building a Desire . . .

We wanted this year to be the best of our time at Hall. We set high goals for ourselves and worked hard for our accomplishments. There were defeats that we experienced, but we learned to accept all that came our way and to make the most of our year.

Involvement By Students Is Beneficial

Hall students were involved in many activities outside of school. Their combined talents and interests helped them to reach out into the community.

Students working in hospitals, nursing homes, and pharmacies directly benefited others in the city. Some students were employed in other fields such as music, theater, and catering food.

Young Life offered a chance for students to meet in interdenominational Christian fellowship. Hall's chapter of Young Life was the largest in the country. There was an average attendance of 100 at every meeting.

At the East End Community Center, Hall students were a vital part of the Center's activities. Students worked at filing, answering the phone, and performing other clerical services. They still found time to have dances, play basketball, pool, volleyball, and to swim.

Spirit Still Thrives At Assemblies

Attendance at pep assemblies was not required under the new program. The life of the assemblies was determined by the students' interest and participation.

For the most part, attendance was good and student interest seemed evident.

Cheerleaders promoted spirit, and the Cheer-o-kees and the Dance Team helped to keep it going. The Pep Band was always on hand, playing such favorites as "Saints in Concert", "Mississippi Mud", and "The Horse."

Special assemblies included the Thanksgiving assembly where baskets of food were presented, the Christmas assembly with a performance by the band and choir, and an assembly to observe Black History Week.

One vital aspect of assemblies was that they provided an opportunity for students to be together. It was the only time the entire student body could meet as a whole.

Carol Rules During 1975 Homecoming

Homecoming 1975 was celebrated on Halloween. Carol Warner, Hall's 17th Homecoming Queen, reigned, as the Warriors battled the Northside Grizzlies for a 20-19 win.

Homecoming activities included a float contest, door decoration contest, Masque Ball, and pep assembly. During the pep assembly the 15 members of the court were presented to the student body. These girls had been selected from the original 30 nominated by the football team.

Escorted by Key Club President Dan Watson and Senior Representative Alan Goodman, Carol was crowned by Mr. Weldon Faulk, principal, and presented with the traditional bouquet of carnations by Student Body President Roy Mellor.

Key Club provided escorts for the remaining court members.

Hall's Tribe Defeated On Turkey Day

Near capacity crowds looked on as the Warriors were defeated by the Central Tigers 26-6 in the traditional Turkey Day game held at Quigley Stadium.

Throughout the preceding week students participated in various activities to promote school spirit. Cheerleaders sponsored Beat the Tigers Day, War Paint Day, Color Day, Sock-it-to-'Em Day, and a Fifties Day pep assembly.

The spirit chain contest, sponsored annually by Y-teens, was won by the junior class. The class with the longest chain was awarded the spirit stick.

Members of the Cheer-o-kee Club attended the annual Turkey Day Tea held this year at Central. Central's Megaphone Club entertained with a skit and dance team performance.

Game-time activities included skits introducing each school's cheerleaders, and performances by Central's band and Hall's Cheer-o-kees.

Nostalgia Of Years Past Is Captured

Once again, on the day before school was out for the Thanksgiving holidays, greased hair, bobby sox, and penny loafers greeted the building like an old friend, as Hall took a nostalgic look at the "fifties."

The pep assembly, held to promote spirit for the annual Turkey Day football game, carried over the "fifties" theme.

The auditorium rocked and rolled to strains of favorite "oldies but goodies," and while students tried to visualize the way it used to be, members of the administrative staff reminisced of days gone by.

In 1957, the year the school was founded, Hall's football team, wearing orange and white tear-away jerseys supplied by their coach, played their first game.

In the first play, Hall ran 90 yards to score a touchdown. After proving to be so lucky, orange and white were adopted as Hall's official school colors, and it was decided to name the team the "Warriors."

For 18 years the wooden Indian, who was loaned to the school during its first year by a local Pontiac dealer, has stood at the front entrance to greet all who enter. At the end of the 1957-58 school year, the Indian was presented to the student body as a gift because of their attachment to him.

In a contest, sponsored by the WAR WHOOP, the name "Wahkendah" was chosen for this mascot.

In 1959, Wahkendah mysteriously disappeared two weeks before the Turkey Day game, but at halftime of the Hall-Central football game it was announced that he had safely returned to the front steps of Hall.

Outstanding Hall Pupils Gain Honors

Many Hall students won honors for their participation in campus, local, state and national activities.

"The Famous of Hall" was created five years ago to recognize some of these deserving students.

This year, the WARRIOR staff selected students who displayed leadership, participation, scholastic capability and good citizenship throughout the year.

DANA ABRAHAM, senior, was one of two United States senators to represent Arkansas at Girls' Nation in Washington. She was elected Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Dana was state treasurer of Girls' State, a member of National Honor Society, corresponding secretary of Beta Club and president of Mu Alpha Theta.

ANGELA MOORE, senior, was a semi-finalist in the National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students. Angela won the persuasive speech contest in Hall's preliminaries of the Bicentennial youth debates. She attended the annual Arkansas Speech Communications Student Congress at the state Capitol. Angela was a member of the National Honor Society, Beta Club, Mu Alpha Theta, Hall Harlequins and Key-ettes.

WILLIE BAKER

WILLIE BAKER, senior, was the state president of Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA). He attended many leadership institutes, including one in Washington in October. Willie represented Metropolitan High School in the National Youth Appreciation festivities at the state Capitol.

TERRY STUDDARD

TERRY STUDDARD, senior, was state parliamentarian for Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA). She was president of the Hall chapter of DECA for two years. Terry represented Hall in the national DECA conference in Florida and the southern regional conference in Nashville, Tenn. Under Terry's leadership the Hall chapter provided a workshop in Conway. Terry was a member of the tennis team, Women's Rights Club and the New Party.

KAREN HIGHT, sophomore, attended the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) Swimming Championships for two years. She held the state title in her age group. Karen was sophomore representative and a member of Keyettes.

JIM DEER, senior, was named the 1976 Keyette Beau. Jim was a two-year letterman in football and a member of Beta Club.

Sunny Days Come Early To Students

Spring came early to Arkansas this year, but to Hall's 1300 students it couldn't have come at a better time. The early arrival kept teachers in constant competition with tempting sunny days and warm weather.

Many students enjoyed fifty days' racing of thoroughbred horses at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs. Others preferred such sports as tennis or bicycling.

School officials granted a one week spring break in March, which was a welcome sight for students infected with "spring fever."

"Do you want to hear my traveling salesman joke?"

"See my new teeth?"

"Are you sure this is the way to hustle?"

"If only she would change her deodorant!"

Big swinger, small racquet.

"There must be an easier way to fly a kite."

"I hope they're housebroken — the dogs, that is!"

Ten Ranked Superior In Achievement

Being ranked among the top ten students academically was one of the highest honors a senior could obtain. Competition between the students, which began at the first semester of their sophomore year, was stiff and often time-consuming.

Those receiving this high honor had to make certain sacrifices for their grades, such as missing a crucial basketball game to study for a chemistry test, or losing a few extra hours of sleep for the sake of a calculus exam. The honor, however, made all sacrifices worthwhile.

The top ten seniors this year were Laura Miller, Susan Ackerman, Ernie Butler, Jennifer Read, Jim Cox, Nancy Hatzfeld, Dana Abraham, Leslie Finch, Roy Mellor and Eadie Dietz.

All of the top seniors were graduated with Cum Laude honors and received special recognition at the commencement exercises.

Seniors Get Honors In Scholastics

Five senior students from Hall were denoted as semi-finalists in the annual National Merit Scholarship Contest. The semi-finalists were the top scorers in the state on the 1974 PSAT/National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test.

Named as semi-finalists from Hall were Jennifer Read, Susan Ackerman, Roy Mellor, Elizabeth Bell and Rick Martin.

Twenty-two students graduated from Hall last year with Cum Laude honors. A student must have eighteen semester "A's" by graduation in order to qualify as a Cum Laude graduate.

Hall Closes Doors For Sun Times

On June 3 the doors of Hall closed once again for the summer months. To many students it meant the closing of an important era in their lives, and the beginning of a new one.

Several things marked the closing of another school year. Graduation invitations were in the mail, tuxedo rental shops were overflowing with customers and pages in the yearbook were filled with signatures of classmates not to be forgotten.

Although these activities occur every year, to each class they represent the culmination of years of hard work, study and fellowship with other students.

Students In Council Are Determined

Through the leadership of president Roy Mellor, the Student Council was actively working for the interests of the student body. The Council, working throughout the summer, built and furnished a Student Lounge in the cafeteria to provide an area for students to talk, read, or study during free periods.

The Student Council sold spirit ribbons, buttons, stickers, and T-shirts to raise school spirit. They also presented skits at pep assemblies. The Council sponsored Homecoming which was held on Halloween. Activities included the annual Homecoming parade and float contest, and a Masque Ball. Council members sponsored several dances throughout the year, including a Valentine Social.

In November, the Student Council held a Re-paint Day to paint trash cans for the school. They initiated and sponsored a weekly recycling project, an ecology effort to re-use waste paper. Bi-weekly, Council members reported the business discussed during meetings to classrooms assigned to each member. They brought suggestions from the students back to the meetings.

The Student Council put up a Christmas tree and provided outside decorations for the school. They presented the foreign exchange student with a phone call home for Christmas.

Council members published and sold the student directory, TRIBE TALK. They sponsored the Black History Week in February to encourage a better understanding of black culture. Several members and officers attended a state-wide Student Council workshop at Central High School. The purpose was to exchange ideas and projects with Student Councils from other schools.

The Student Council worked on a new orientation packet for new students at Hall. This enabled incoming students to better understand procedures at Hall and to feel a part of the school.

Sponsors of Student Council were Mr. Michael Norton, Mrs. Fred Trowell, and Miss Sharon Diemer.

NHS Raises Money For Book Shelf

The Honor Society, a national organization for students maintaining a high grade point, sponsored competition between the classes to raise money to fill an empty bookshelf in the new Media Center. Different stations were set up around the school. The class that filled the bookshelf first won the competition.

Traditionally, the Honor Society bulletin board was kept up-to-date with all of the school activities, with an additional comment or two.

Volunteers spent some of their extra time working in the Hall Mall; others helped address PTSA newsletters.

Eighty-six juniors and seniors were inducted into the organization in January.

In commemoration of the American Bicentennial celebration, the Honor Society made certain that an American flag was displayed in every classroom.

The faculty sponsors were Mrs. Willis Crosby, Mr. Frank Kent, and Mrs. John Norman.

Betas Treat SCAN Kids To A Party

Senior Jennifer Read presided over the Beta Club this year. The club is a service organization for the school and community, composed of students with a 'B' average or better.

They held a Christmas party for the children of Suspected Child Abuse and Neglect (SCAN) at Pulaski Heights Methodist Church. The members provided presents and refreshments for each child.

Speakers at the meetings were unique and interesting. Mrs. Henry McHenry, secretary to U.S. Senator Dale Bumpers, spoke on politics. Miss Anne Hansen, from the Sex Discrimination Institute at UALR, spoke about sex discrimination in the schools. Miss Jeanie Culbertson, representative from the Arkansas Association for Retarded Citizens, spoke about retardation in our society.

The club sponsors for this year were Mrs. Earnest Norman, Mrs. John Miller, and Mrs. Neil Woomer.

Inter-Racial Focuses On Total Unity

The purpose of the Inter-Racial Club was to create racial harmony within Hall High School. Members discussed and investigated inter-racial conflicts within the school and the community.

During the year the members worked closely with the Bi-Racial Council. The two groups sponsored a movie for the student body's enjoyment.

In May, the Inter-Racial Club sponsored a school-wide field day with a variety of track and field events scheduled throughout the day.

Club members published a calendar featuring student pictures and quotes from famous people.

Phillip Kaplan, an attorney, was the guest speaker at one of the club meetings.

Linda Bedford was the president, and Mr. Roy Wade and Miss Annette Williams were the sponsors.

Bands Made By Kachinas For Royalty

Kachinas continued their long-standing tradition of providing the homecoming court with accessories. These included flowers, headbands, and the robe for Queen Carol Warner.

Club members fulfilled their role as school hostesses by serving at the football and basketball banquets. Their duties included the seating of guests, the serving of food, and the cleaning up afterward.

Mrs. John Strange and Mrs. Robert Batton sponsored the group which met monthly in room 203.

Hall Y-Teens Prove Their Sports Skill

Y-Teens from all over the Greater Little Rock area participated in "Super Teens" in the fall. Each school competed in the athletic events for trophies and awards. Hall's club came in second in the competition, over-all.

At the Hall High athletic field, Y-Teens and Keyettes formed teams to battle each other in a "powder puff" football game, attracting a sizeable crowd of interested onlookers. Y-Teens sold refreshments, which were consumed by the players during halftime.

Twice a week, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, nine of the girls devoted an hour of their time tutoring children with reading problems, a program sponsored by the First Methodist Church.

Members were "Big Sisters" to underprivileged children and participated in a "bake-off" to aid a boy's reform school. Links to a spirit chain and candy were sold to raise money for various purposes.

Y-Teens also attended three conferences this year: Mid-Winter, held to elect city-wide officers; State, to elect state officers; and Mid-South, two weeks spent on the Gulf Coast to elect regional officers.

Club Assists In Projects Thru-Out 76

The Key Club provided their services to various organizations this year. Several of their members assisted the Keyettes in sponsoring a Christmas party for the Methodist Children's Home.

They raised money for Muscular Dystrophy, sponsored a project for the March of Dimes, and donated blood to the Red Cross.

The traditional Key Club calendar was published with Elizabeth Hardie as cover girl. The club also helped sponsor homecoming activities and escorted members of the homecoming court.

Members went on a coon hunt with their sponsoring organization, the Kiwanis Club. Also, they floated the Buffalo River in the spring.

Mr. Charles Thompson was the sponsor of Hall's Chapter.

Keyettes Do Projects To Help People

Keyettes started the year off by giving their members a progressive dinner. After the dinner, they followed up by having their annual election of the Keyette Beau. Jim Deer, senior, was this year's selection. He was honored with a gift certificate from Moses.

In December, the Keyettes maintained the Christmas spirit by assisting the Key Club in giving a party for the Methodist Childrens' Home. They entertained the children by singing songs and serving refreshments.

Keyettes functioned as a service club. They collected coupons for the underprivileged citizens in the community. The recipients could, in turn, collect money for the coupons. Keyettes raised money for various charities, helped in the Hall Mall, and provided services for the school and community.

Keyettes attended monthly meetings with their sponsor, the Kiwanis Club. School sponsors were Ms. Angela Maynard and Mrs. Jerry Hodge.

Bicentennial Flags Trace Am. History

FBLA was responsible for a bicentennial flag display in the Media Center, in which 23 flags from the nation's past were exhibited for several days. These flags traced the history of the United States and included early English and French flags that flew over what is now the United States, along with the Revolutionary War flags, the modern 50-star flag, and the bicentennial flag.

This flag collection was recognized by the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission.

The Homecoming parade was sponsored this year by FBLA. The judges were members of the club, and prizes for the best decorations were awarded. Along with the parade, FBLA was in charge of the Thanksgiving Day baskets, which were donated to Youth Home, Incorporated.

As a money raising project, popcorn was sold at all home basketball games.

Delegates Of Hall Learn Government

The annual Girls' and Boys' State events, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, were located at the University of Central Arkansas, this year, instead of the usual setting at Camp Robinson. Attending the camp in June were six Boys' State and seven Girls' State delegates.

The delegates learned about the country's government by taking part in mock elections for city, county, and state elections. Speakers such as Attorney General Jim Guy Tucker, County Judge Frank Mackey, and Governor David Pryor spoke to the delegates.

One of Hall's delegates to Girls' State, Dana Abraham, received the office of State Treasurer and was selected to attend Girls' Nation in Washington, D.C.

SRA Shows Progress In Game Skills

The Student Recreation Association (SRA) was involved in three recreational activities: cards, chess, and bridge.

There were no dues for members in the club. In place of business meetings, the members devoted their time to developing their skills. The club was not limited to experienced card players.

The SRA members played Catholic High School in a chess match, which ended in a draw.

Hall's Band Polishes To Best Ability

Along with the continual process of polishing their musical ability, this year's Warrior Band, which consisted of over 65 members, sold fruit cakes and bicentennial tumblers. The money raised from these projects was used to send the band on their annual band trip in the spring.

In February, various members of the band attended a band contest where an All-Region band was selected. Those being selected went on to attend the All-State contest held in March.

Hall traditionally has two bands, a performing concert band and a training group. The concert band presented a Thanksgiving concert with the Hallmarks and also a Christmas concert.

The pep band played at all home games during the football season and most basketball games. They performed at pep assemblies throughout the year.

The Hallmarks joined with the Central High School choir to sing in the annual Christmas assembly in December. The choir also presented a Thanksgiving concert in November and their Spring Concert in April.

The choir appeared on Eye on Arkansas on Channel 11 and they also presented a concert at Pulaski Heights Methodist Church.

Ben Moody, a member of the Hallmarks, was selected to the All-State and All-Region choirs for the third year in a row. This was the first year for a Hall student to obtain this distinction.

Mr. Robert Brack served as director of the choir for a second year.

Drama Club Presentation Entices Hall

The Hall Harlequins presented "Here and Now," a comedy written by David Rogers, as the 1976 all-school play production. "Here and Now" is a contemporary experiment in theatre dealing with problems faced by young adults in today's changing society.

Tryouts for the sixteen member cast were held in January. The play was presented March 11 for the student body and March 12 for the public. Harlequin members were in charge of all properties, make-up, costumes and publicity for the production. Students were also responsible for all technical management.

Any student, who had previously taken a speech or drama course was eligible to audition for the play. Mrs. Michael West sponsored the Harlequins.

Artists' Club Teaches Art Awareness

Kitty Grasinger, president of the Art Club, led the group in its purpose to increase art appreciation in the school and community. They strived to educate the community in a better understanding of art.

The club accomplished its goal by painting Warriors for the gym and helped distribute posters for the Arkansas Arts Center, advertising their productions.

The club's activities during the year included making soap candles and experimenting with pin-hole cameras. The sponsor for the 1975-1976 school year was Mrs. Judy Hankins.

Stage Crew Helps With Assemblies

The stage crew's primary duty was to take charge of the auditorium. The crew was responsible for the lights, sound and stage for all assemblies and other auditorium uses. The crew was also responsible as fire marshals for the school.

The stage crew helped with outside productions such as "Rigoletto," "Up With People," and "An Evening with the Arts." They assisted in the evening performances of the band, choir and orchestra. Members helped with equipment, sets and preparations for the performances.

The crew was sponsored by Mrs. Michael West and Mrs. Robert Bailey. Manager Jack Greenwood organized members in the care of the auditorium.

War Whoop Adopts New Front Page

Edited by senior Bill Nicholson, the WAR WHOOP had an entirely different look. Each issue featured large pictures on the front page, with much use of graphics throughout.

Because the staff was small, each member had an opportunity to write a variety of articles.

Staff members attended the Arkansas High School Press Association in April, where they were able to compare their publication with other high school newspapers in the state. They entered contests sponsored by the association and attended workshop sessions conducted by professional journalists.

Donna Stockton served as managing editor, Jeff Treece was sports editor, and Tommy Wells was business manager and photographer.

Journalists Inducted In Honor Club

In the spring a candlelight ceremony was held to induct 12 new members into Quill and Scroll, an organization for "budding" journalists. The qualifications for membership were that the inductee was either a junior or senior with a 'B' average or better. This was an international honorary organization.

Members were required to write at least 100 inches of copy. Because each member was either on the WAR WHOOP or WARRIOR staff, this was accomplished early in the year.

At each meeting, the members were given additional opportunities to work on their publications, especially before a deadline was to be met. From this club the members learned various techniques and "tricks of the trade" helpful in producing publications.

Staff Meets Rockefeller At Airport

WARRIOR staffers greeted Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller at the Little Rock Municipal Airport in October as he stepped off an airplane to meet with state officials. After speaking briefly with the Vice-President, staff members were invited to attend a press conference at the Sheraton Hotel.

Staff members attended a yearbook workshop held at Central High School in November. New designs in yearbooks were discussed and several awards were given to outstanding Arkansas yearbooks.

The WARRIOR staff sold page sponsorships throughout the year to local businesses. During the subscription drive in November, yearbooks were sold to students on a one to one basis. In past years they were sold in homerooms.

Editor of the 256-page yearbook was Julie Calhoun. The 15 member staff was sponsored by Mrs. Tom Christie.

Scholarship Supplied By Hall's A.F.S.

Hall's chapter of the American Field Service (AFS) helped Little Rock's chapter raise money for the foreign exchange students by having a spaghetti dinner. The money went to supply scholarships.

The AFS had the foreign exchange students at Hall give an informative talk on their country. Among the speakers were: Juan Rojas, Costa Rica; Geir Meland, Norway; and Portia Porter who went as an AFS student to Italy.

At Christmas, the members raised money to give Hall's foreign exchange students a phone call home. They also bought them class rings.

AFS met once a month in room 610. Their sponsor was Mrs. Marcia Lecky.

Inkwell Staff

Staff Picks Originals Of Hall Pupils

The Inkwell consisted of original works, turned in by Hall students and teachers. The works were in the form of essays, short stories, poetry, artwork, and photography.

The staff judged the work submitted, and chose the best selections to be published. The Inkwell went on sale in October and November through the English classes. It was scheduled to be presented to the student body in late April.

The Inkwell staff not only published the Inkwell, but also studied short stories, essays, and poetry of famous authors. They learned to analyze and appreciate all different types of writings.

Mr. Frank Kent was the Inkwell sponsor. He worked closely with the staff, but let them make their own decisions. Nancy Jacuzzi served as editor-in-chief.

History Club Buries 1976 Time Shell

History Club members put together a time "capsule" filled with items they felt best represented the life styles of 1976. After sealing the capsule, to be opened in 2076, they buried it under President Bill Nicholson's house.

Members were especially aware of historical events during this bicentennial year, as they participated in various school and community celebrations of the nation's founding.

The final club function of the year was a picnic in May. Members wore costumes depicting their favorite characters in history.

Club sponsor was Mr. Sam Kent.

Club Shows Interest In German Life

Following the addition of German to the curriculum this fall, students enrolled in the German classes decided to form a club. The members shared the same interests; Germany and its culture.

The German club started the year by having a party to initiate officers.

Members attended a state foreign language festival where they learned about German culture. Jill Beckwith placed first in the Declamation contest at the festival.

Club officers planned a party in conjunction with other German clubs in the Little Rock and North Little schools. The party was called a Faschings Party, which is similar to the French Mardi Gras.

Sponsors were Miss Ingrid Hesse and Mr. John Williams.

GRA Builds Interest In Competition

Girls' Recreational Association (GRA) involved interested girls in a large number of competitive sports. They strived to improve physical ability and work together as a team. Good sportsmanship was stressed in both individual and team sports. To participate in intramurals during free periods, girls were required to join GRA.

For the first time this year, the girls' volleyball team played teams from other schools in the city. After winning first place in the city conference, they competed in two state field days at Arkansas State University and University of Central Arkansas. Other sports that the GRA members participated in were basketball, tennis, golf, swimming, archery, gymnastics, track and softball.

ICT Builds Leadership In Students

The Industrial Cooperative Training program (ICT) was aimed at the involvement of all the industrial youth in developing themselves as skilled men and women.

ICT assisted students in establishing realistic vocational goals. The atmosphere which the members were around was one full of enthusiasm for learning their trades.

Members developed the ability to work together, organize, and carry out worthy activities and projects through the democratic process.

The students were eligible for membership in the Vocational Industrial Clubs of America (VICA). The purpose of VICA was to develop an understanding of the industrial business world and a consciousness of their civic obligations in the students.

ICT provided students with an opportunity to receive vocational training in a specific occupation. Students obtained an opportunity to work at the careers they were interested in.

Tribe Finds CHS Tough To Conquer

The Warriors got off to a good start September 12 as they defeated the Catholic High School Rockets 15-14 in a come from behind win.

Catholic scored first, driving 65 yards from the opening kick-off. Hall tied the score at 7-7 three plays after the second half opened with runs by Gary Woods totalling 73 yards.

The Rockets held on to a third quarter 14-7 lead. Late in the fourth period a loose ball, recovered by Robert Ginnaven, put the Warriors back into scoring position. Runs by Arthur Williams and Woods brought the ball to the Rocket two. Hall scored with an unexpected sneak up the middle by Alex Herman. A two-point conversion lob to Arthur Williams edged the Warriors to a 15-14 win.

Hall Profits From Mills' Errors 33-0

Mills' mistakes and a tough Warrior defense aided Hall in a 33-0 shutout over the Comets. Two fumbles, a bad punt, and a defensive stand enabled the offense to score easily.

Gary Woods scored on a 10 yard sweep around left end. After Perry Roper recovered a Comet fumble, Hall drove 23 yards in four plays for the second score.

Hall traveled 62 yards sparked by a 19-yard Herman pass to Williams, for the third TD. Tom Honeycutt's kick was good, bringing the score to 20-0. Edwin Conway dislodged the football from the Comet quarterback. Leslie Brown picked up the loose ball and scored standing up.

After a 51 yard drive, Allen Pettit hit Kevin Kullander for a 60 yard touchdown bomb making the score 33-0.

Tribe Stops Wildcats In 15-3 Victory

Profiting from two Wildcat fumbles, the Warriors scored two touchdowns to defeat NLR Ole Main 15-3 at Wildcat Stadium.

After driving 64 yards on its first possession, Hall lost the ball when Alex Herman fumbled on the 12. In turn, Ole Main's quarterback fumbled a snap and the Warriors recovered the ball at the Wildcat 6. Two plays later Gary Woods scored on a 5-yard power sweep around right end.

The second touchdown came late in the fourth quarter after the Wildcats had put 3 points on the board. Leslie Brown recovered a fumble for Hall at the Wildcat 6. Woods came through right tackle on third down for the score.

Tribe Wins Another At Jonesboro

The Warriors won their fourth straight game as the defensive unit led Hall to a 25-6 victory over Jonesboro. Defensively, the Tribe dominated the game. Two interceptions by monster man Mark Doramus, and an interception and two deflections by Greg Davis prevented the Hurricane's offensive movement.

After a Jonesboro fumble, quarterback Allen Pettit scrambled around and connected with Kevin Kullander for a 30-yard touchdown pass. The extra point put the Warriors ahead 7-0.

Kullander also scored the second touchdown as he caught Pettit's pass over the middle for 18 yards. The Warriors iced the victory with a 95 yard scoring drive late in the fourth period.

Hall High Is Silenced By Zebras, 19-0

The Pine Bluff Zebras shut-out Hall's Warriors 19-0 in the Tribe's second loss. Pine Bluff, who finished with a near spotless record of only one questionable loss to Central, was ready for the Warriors, and showed it.

The Zebras took the opening kick-off and drove to the eight yard line of Warrior Territory. The "Orange Crush" defense held, and Pine Bluff was forced to kick a 27 yard field goal.

With five minutes left in the half, Leslie Brown recovered a loose ball for the Warriors on the Zebra 16. After working their way to the two, the Warriors suffered an off-sides penalty, followed by a personal foul against the Warriors, moving the ball back to the Pine Bluff 24. On the next play, Herman's pass was intercepted by a Zebra defender, thus ending Hall's only serious threat.

Hall Fights NLR Team For Victory

The Warriors, executing one of their better games of the season, fought to defeat Northeast 26-13.

Coming back from an early Charger lead, Alex Herman connected with Kevin Kullander for a 34-yard pass to set up the first Warrior score. Gary Woods ran three yards for the touchdown.

Woods scored the second touchdown from the nine capping an 86-yard Warrior drive.

Hall took the kickoff at the half and marched 69 yards in 16 plays to allow Arthur Williams to score from the one. Darrell Tims intercepted a fourth quarter pass setting up Hall's last touchdown. Kullander caught an eight yard scoring pass for the Warriors' final points.

Even though the Warriors controlled a 20-7 fourth quarter lead, they had to fight to keep it as the Grizzlies closed the gap 20-19.

Hall's first touchdown came after Anthony Ragland recovered a Grizzly fumble at the 18.

Gary Woods took the pitch-out around right end and scored for the Warriors making it 6-0. During the second period each team scored once, closing the half at 12-7.

The Warriors' third touchdown came after a Grizzly fourth and six attempt failed at the 35. Five plays later Herman scored on a 24 yard option play. Gary Woods' successful two-point conversion proved to be the last Warrior points on the board.

After taking a 20-7 lead, Hall's Warriors withstood a furious rally by Fort Smith to collect their eighth victory of the season, 20-19.

Trophies were awarded to Gary Woods, Keith Butler, Ed Leonard, Edwin Conway, Greg Davis, and Jim Deer.

The coaches were then presented with gifts. Besides serious gifts of leather bags, Coach Callaway received a non-workable whistle, Coach Elders got three hamburger gift certificates, Coach Isom got chewing tobacco, and Coach Keopple received chewing tobacco plus a bronze spittoon.

The banquet was closed by the varsity cheerleaders giving a slide show of the players' baby pictures.

Braves Are Youngest In League Play

Finishing in a three-way tie for sixth place in the conference, the Warriors compiled a season record of 11 wins and 13 losses.

Asked to compare his team to other conference teams, Coach Oliver Elders replied, "Not only are we the youngest team in the conference, but we are also the smallest team."

Hall's starting line-up this year consisted of one senior, three juniors and one sophomore. Of these five starters Theodis Bealer, the only senior starter, was the most consistent shooter and leading scorer for the Warriors. Sophomore Willie Scott and junior Dewayne Jackson helped out in the scoring department.

Board strength for the Warriors was found in juniors Rodney Ellis and Craig Banks. Banks had never played organized basketball before this season.

Even with the loss of Theodis Bealer, next year's team appears to be a contender, returning seven of its top players.

Curtis Hampton and Delta Harris led the team in rebounding and ran a close second to Michael Hall in the scoring category. Clifton Nooner took up some of the scoring burdens after Michael Hall was called up to the varsity team.

Crox Team Ready For State Meet

The Cross Country team worked to be in the best condition possible for the state meet, held in Searcy on November 8. The team finished second in the meet after working from August to November, averaging 17 miles a day in workouts.

The team participated in preliminary meets at Russellville, Searcy and Fort Roots. They had strong support from sophomore members, who placed high in the meets.

Preceding the El Dorado football game, the team ran the spirit stick 120 miles to exhibit their school spirit. The members averaged 15 miles apiece and completed the relay in 13 hours.

Hard Work Pays Off In Early Meet

Hall's track team ran away with first place at the Harding College Indoor Meet on February 14. This victory set the precedent for the rest of the track season.

Track team members underwent strenuous training during the winter in order to be in perfect condition for the 11 meets in which they participated. Time trials were often used in order to determine which athletes would run in the meets.

This year's track team was built around the abilities of the 15 returning lettermen. However, beginning sophomores also played an important part in Hall's victories.

Coach Mike Isom transferred to Hall's coaching staff from Booker in order to aid in the training of prospective athletes.

Spring Is Time For 'Minors'

As spring approached, the days grew warmer and once again Hall began to form its track and field, tennis, volleyball, golf, and gymnastics teams, along with various intramural sports.

The teams, considered to be minor sports, were formed with a great deal of enthusiasm by the athletes involved. All of the students competed with other schools for practice, competition and titles.

The girls' track team began working out in January and attended their first meet in March. The team, which was the 1975 State Girls' Track Champions, had several of their girls return for another season of competition. The team was invited to compete in eight meets, including several out-of-town invitationals and the Warrior Relays. The season ended in May with the state meet.

The tennis team played challenge matches all year for positions on the team. Several of the players were ranked statewide for their age groups. Throughout the months of March, April and May the team played matches every Tuesday and Thursday.

The golf team held competitive try-outs in February. The girls and boys were selected on the basis of their individual scores. Those picked competed with other schools in matches.

A new program of intramurals was devised this year. Students were given the opportunity to participate in team sports such as flag football, basketball and volleyball. Individual games, like ping pong and tennis, were offered as well. The competition was open to any student not participating in varsity athletics.

1975-76 Pep Club

Tough Tribe Is Cheered By Pepsters

Consisting of approximately 100 sophomore, junior and senior girls, the Pep Club helped to boost Warrior spirit by cheering at football and basketball games.

Membership in the club for one year was required for girls wishing to tryout for cheerleader, Cheer-o-kees or dance team. Club meetings were held during fifth and sixth periods on game days.

In addition to attending ball games, the girls promoted school pep by making banners to put up around the school which encouraged Warrior victories.

Elected in September as the club's officers were Linda Bedford, president, Karen Lewis, vice-president, Dana Love and Wanda Finley, sergeant-at-arms.

Fans Enjoy Grooving At Hall Games

The Hall High Dance team, consisting of seven members, performed at various school activities. Dance routines were enjoyed by students at assemblies, basketball games and one football game.

Different types of music were used to perform the routines, which were developed by members of the team.

The dance team was not just a dancing group but also participated as spirit boosters. Each member was assigned to an athlete as her "secret pal" and supplied them with goodies before the games.

Competitive tryouts were held in the spring for girls wishing to be on the team. A dance routine was performed by the participants for judges.

Dance team officers were Beverly Bealer, captain, Phyllis Young, co-captain, and Lenora Peoples, sergeant-at-arms.

Pep Shown By Cheering Organization

Headed by Captain Christy Scales and Co-captain Pam Williams, the varsity cheerleaders were kept busy promoting spirit at athletic events. The ten seniors, along with the reserve cheerleaders, attended every football and basketball game of the year, including those held out of town.

The reserve cheerleaders were led by Captain Debbie Kirkpatrick and Co-captain DeAnn Ward. The reserves cheered at B-team games and at all varsity football games.

Greeting cards were sold by both squads in an effort to raise money to purchase new uniforms and to send members to a summer camp in Louisiana.

Cheer-o-kees Perform At Intermission

Cheer-o-kee Drummers

The Cheer-o-kees, an all-girl drill team, provided halftime entertainment at football and basketball games. Their purpose was to aid the cheerleaders in promoting spirit. Thirty-two girls participated as members of the drill team.

Practice for the Cheer-o-kees began the last three weeks of August. The girls practiced four hours each morning, Monday through Friday.

The Cheer-o-kees were invited to perform in the annual Little Rock Christmas parade. They marched and did a short routine.

For the first time in history of Hall High's Cheer-o-kees, drummers were provided on a regular basis. Five girls volunteered to drum for all Cheer-o-kee practices and performances. They were: Dorcy Kyle, Sue Leroux, Jean Gibson, Mary Fell, Kelley Weaver.

'75-'76 Year Fruitful For Fair, Admn.

It was another fruitful year for Dr. Paul Fair, superintendent of the Little Rock Public Schools, and his administrative staff. Successful programs from previous years were continued and new ones were developed.

The staff included four assistant superintendents: Mr. John Fortenberry in instruction, Mr. Floyd Langston in business affairs, Mr. William Fowler in personnel, and Dr. Leonard Thalmueller in pupil services.

The Instructional Services Division, headed by Mr. Fortenberry, proposed a new plan of organization for one of the District's high schools.

Staff members at Hall High School became interested in the plan. Committees were formed to include faculty, students, and parents who studied various aspects of the plan and incorporated these ideas into a final recommendation.

The program was approved on May 1, 1975 by the Little Rock School Board, and put into effect on September 2, 1975.

After a number of years as a partner with the American School in La Paz, Bolivia, the Little Rock School District began a similar program with the American School in Munich and Frankfurt, Germany this year.

Mr. Fortenberry visited the Munich School in June for organizational meetings, and in turn, Mr. Stanley Brown, elementary principal in Munich, came to Little Rock in July.

Dr. Fair traveled to Munich and Frankfurt in November for orientation and continued program development.

This was Dr. Fair's fourth year as superintendent. He had previously served as deputy superintendent.

Patterson Is Selected To Head Board

Mr. T. E. Patterson, former secretary of the Little Rock School Board, served as president this year. Mr. Patterson was the first black to ever hold the position in Little Rock.

Mr. Patterson also served as Governor David Pryor's liaison person for education and human relations, after taking a leave of absence from his position as assistant executive secretary of the Arkansas Education Association.

Members of the Board included: Mrs. Lucy Abraham, secretary; Mr. James Adams Jr.; Dr. Arthur Gillum, vice-president; Mr. Neill Hart Jr.; Mr. Robert McHenry; and Dr. Travis Tunnell Jr.

Major goals for the 1975-76 school year included (1) improvement of behavior and discipline; (2) improvement of communication and understanding among students, parents, and educators; and (3) an increase in the achievement of all students.

Program Is Organized By Principal

Mr. Weldon K. Faulk, who has been principal of Hall for six years, was a primary force behind the promotion of the new program, and in Hall's selection as the school to test it.

Mr. Faulk said that he was proud of Hall's student body because of "the extreme interest" they were showing in the new program.

"Ninety-nine per cent of our students got to choose their own classes and the periods that they wanted for their classes," Mr. Faulk commented.

Most students had elected to go in the morning. Mr. Faulk said that "the bulk of the students are here by 8:30 and by 9:30 the total population is at school." He also estimated by 1:30 p.m. that as little as half the student body was at school.

Assisting Mr. Faulk in the administration of Hall High School were three assistant principals: Mr. Robert Lawrence, Mr. Lovell Moore, and Mrs. John G. Wooley.

Mr. Lawrence was in charge of the maintenance of the building and the school grounds. He supervised the loading of all morning buses. The bookstore was supervised by Mr. Lawrence, and he ordered all instructional supplies and equipment. He distributed the state textbooks, as well.

This year Mr. Moore handled all discipline of the male students. He was in charge of the Referral for Counseling (RFC) room, which was located in the old library. He also supervised the loading of all afternoon buses.

The discipline and behavior problems of all female students was handled this year by Mrs. Wooley. She was in charge of organizing all competition and awards for girls, such as Girls' State, Junior Miss, and the DAR Good Citizen. She also scheduled events on the school calendar.

English Dept. Of Hall High Tries Different Techniques

Under the new program, a student could select the courses that he wanted to take in English this year. All courses offered were one semester courses.

There was a new course required of all students called Composing Process. A student could take more than one English course at a time if he wanted to. With the help of the teachers all students chose from a variety of selections.

Brief Encounters was a course designed to meet the needs of students who had trouble in the mechanics of reading and in oral and written composition.

The Hero and Heroine was directed toward an awareness of the human traits that individuals, though different in values, possess.

A course designed to provide cultural enrichment was called Humanities. The content of Communicative Skills was planned to meet the needs of those students who plan to work following high school. American Experience stressed origins of American thought as expressed from the Colonial period to the 19th century.

A course which included readings from the Anglo-Saxon period to the 20th century was called British Writers' Survey. An exploration of the chronological development of the works of great dramatists was named Masterpieces of British Drama. Great British Novels of the 19th and 20th centuries emphasized themes in novels of that time period.

Creative Writing was an intensified study of traditional and modern poetry. Spelling, vocabulary, grammar and composition were stressed in Composing Process. Literature of the Minorities showed the struggle and ideals of various minority groups in America.

A study of the elements of Elizabethan times and culture was called Shakespeare. Composing Process included spelling, vocabulary, grammar and composition. This was a laboratory course where the students worked on their individual problems in writing.

Photography Is Offered To Students

The journalism department was expanded this year with the addition of space, equipment, and a new course.

A portion of the new media center included much needed cabinets and counters designed for use by the department.

The biggest addition to the department was its new fully equipped dark room, located in the center. It features a large room for printing and developing pictures, plus a loading room, and a small entry hall.

Equipment was purchased with federal funds allocated to the Little Rock School District.

Two classes of photography were added to the curriculum. Students practiced candid and portrait photography and darkroom techniques.

Journalism I students studied the basics of newswriting, editorial writing, headline writing, page make-up, and copy reading.

Journalism II students made up the staffs of the newspaper and the yearbook. The WAR WHOOP staff produced an eight page newspaper twice monthly during the year, and the WARRIOR staff published a 256 page book which was presented to the student body in May.

Both publications were entirely self-supporting.

Department Has Exciting New Looks

This year the speech department had a new look. In September it was moved into new quarters adjacent to the auditorium. This area, formerly the snack bar, was completely remodeled and featured a large open area, completely carpeted, with a small stage and dressing rooms.

The department was active in forensic tournaments, beginning with the annual Arkansas Speech Communications Student Congress November 16, 17, and 18 at the state Capitol. The congress went through actual congressional procedures. Formal parliamentary rules were followed in the presentation of bills and debates.

Other events included a debate held in Searcy December 5 and 6. District competition was held later that month.

In February the speech students traveled to Henderson State College in Arkadelphia where they presented selections of prose and poetry. They were judged on the effectiveness of their delivery.

Throughout the year, drama students presented several small class productions to interested students during lunch hours, and they put on their annual school wide production in March.

Beginning speech classes learned the basics of communications.

Talents And Skills Seen In Students

Developing student skills, the Fine Arts and language departments continued to grow this year. These departments provided showcases for students to display their talents.

In Fine Arts, students developed their ability in painting, singing, or through instrumental music. Foreign language pupils found expression through the interpretation of another language.

In the language area, French and Spanish classes were moved to zone I. As in the past, four different levels of French and Spanish were offered and two of Latin. German, new to the department, was taught by Miss Ingrid Hesse. Miss Hesse was part of the school district's reciprocal program with the American school in Munich. She taught both at Hall and Parkview.

In October, German students attended a language fair at UALR. In the spring Spanish classes observed their country's holidays and studied their cultures.

The Fine Arts department, including the band, the choir, and art department, added enjoyment to school activities. The Warrior Band helped promote spirit, pep, and color at assemblies and football and basketball games. For the first time, this year there were three periods of band.

The choir made several city wide performances including a Christmas program which was on television December 10. In addition, the choir made appearances before the student body.

Art students had many courses available, ranging from watercolor and basic art to poster and creative design.

Dept. Study Centers On Bicentennial

Bicentennial projects played an important part in the activities of the social studies department this year.

Projects included historical minutes on the daily bulletin, co-sponsorship of the Bicentennial flag collection which was displayed in the Media Center during November, and a Bicentennial fair held in the spring.

In addition, the social studies department aided the librarians with displays placed on the bulletin boards outside the Media Center entrance.

Mrs. Kathryn Edwards and Mrs. Martha Crosby assisted in the production of a Bicentennial guide which was used in the Little Rock Public School's history classes this year.

Psychology, American government, world history, and sociology, along with American history, made up the curriculum of the social studies department.

New Method Adds Depth To Learning

General math teachers were working under the buddy system this year. Every four weeks a different teacher made out the study sheets and tests to be used by all general math students. This insured students the same education no matter which teacher they had.

Room 600 was converted into office space for teachers in this zone. This office gave the math teachers a place to hold conferences and store necessary materials.

The math department completed the move, started last year, to the 600 zone. This enabled them to build a more unified department.

Math classes on a higher level than general math were also offered. These classes were designed to meet the needs of students with more challenging minds.

Science Dept. Moves Into Building With Equipment

In August the science department moved into a new building, completed during the 1974-75 school year. The new addition has ample storage space and a variety of new equipment.

Along with the new building the department received 30 microscopes, a kymograph, a physiograph, and tables for dissecting. The biology classes acquired the microscopes for experiments during the spring. They also used the kymograph, which separates the parts of the blood, and physiograph, which monitors muscle movements, to study the body.

Physiology, a new one semester course, was added for seniors and juniors this year. Physiology was taught one period a day and students studied the parts of the human body.

Physics classes met at 5:00 a.m. some mornings in the fall to locate different stars and planets. The classes also went on a field trip to the UALR Planetarium to observe the positions of the planets.

Biology students went to Aldersgate Camp this year to study Environmental Awareness. Students analyzed water samples, made terrariums, and grew small plants to contribute ideas for Environmental Awareness folders. The folders were made to help give them a better understanding of the environment and the effects of the pollution on it.

Bus. Educ. Pupils Gain Work Aids

New equipment used within the business education department included additional electronic calculators, a memory typewriter, and a switchboard. Plans were made for the installation of phones for desks in the simulated office.

Mrs. Bobby Nichols, who taught typewriting, was a new teacher in the department.

Two courses were added to the curriculum. Junior secretarial training, a two-hour course, gave two units of credit. The course was designed to prepare students for employment in the secretarial field. Careers in Office Occupations II provided a program developed for each student based on his or her individual needs. Students who enrolled in the course acquired academic and job-related skills needed to become employable.

A cooperative effort between junior secretarial training and simulated office practice enabled students to have temporary "employment" in a simulated office to experience a regular office flow of work and a total office situation.

A major objective of the department was to provide opportunities for students to acquire vocational competency in office-related subjects and skills. Emphasis was placed on decision-making, communication, logic, reasoning, self-development, and adaptability to change.

New System Affects Voc. Ed. Students

The new program was particularly important to students enrolled in vocational education programs because it enabled students to report to work earlier and further encouraged responsibility and self-reliance. Mrs. Charlotte Johnson, a full-time Health Occupations coordinator, was new to the vocational education department.

The department was composed of industrial arts, mechanical drawing, drafting, Distributive Education, Coordinated Career Education, Industrial Cooperative Training, and Health Occupations Education. These programs attempted to develop human abilities in terms of knowledge, skills, and understanding so that the student could become a wage earner as well as a productive citizen.

Businessmen in the Little Rock area helped teachers and coordinators to place students and served on advisory committees. A general objective of the vocational education department was to assist the student when necessary in seeking admittance to craft unions and securing and holding a job.

Development Major Part For Study

The child development course in the home economics department gave Hall students a chance to learn first hand about problems of five-year-old kindergarten children.

While students in the child development course were actually working with the children, students in the other home economics courses were observing.

"Because of that, the child development course has become a major part of the department's activities," Mrs. Virginia Minor, child development instructor, said.

In addition to child development, other courses in the department were home economics, human development and adult living.

Home Economics I, II, and III prepared students to be better family members. Their work in planning the Spring Style Show added purpose and excitement to the daily class work.

Human development helped students to develop their own values, while trying to understand the value systems of others.

Dept. Gains New Room, Instructor

The special education department made a move this year from outside mobile units to the 100's zone. New to the department was Mrs. James Scott, replacing Mrs. Charles Mitchener in mid-semester.

The department offered a curriculum of academic and vocational courses to its students, while placing most of its emphasis upon individualized instruction. This enabled the teacher to identify students' strengths and weaknesses to meet the students' individual needs.

The main courses offered to the students were math, English, and social studies.

Students' class placement underwent some change with the innovation of mainstreaming, which allowed students with high academic abilities to be placed into selective basic classes.

All students were eligible for vocational training either at Metropolitan High School or through Co-ordinated Career Education.

Intramurals Entice Many P.E. Pupils

Students who enrolled in physical education classes this year took advantage of the opportunity to participate in Hall's intramural program, held during fifth and sixth periods.

Coach Oliver Elders, head basketball coach, headed the new program with the help of the new assistant track, football and basketball coach, Mike Isom, and the other physical education teachers.

Basketball and volleyball received the most attention in the boys' intramural program. The girls' intramural program consisted mainly of basketball, gymnastics and volleyball, which was offered for the first time to the girls.

In most physical education classes, students were divided into teams based on grade levels. These teams competed for class titles. Then the individual class champions competed on their own grade levels for the overall title.

New Media Center Is Instructional

After one year of construction the new Media Center opened its doors September 18.

The new library offered many advantages to the students. Spaciously constructed, the library contains a useful reference area and vertical files.

The Media Center was open from 7 a.m. until 4 p.m. every day. No pass was required, but I.D. cards had to be shown for admittance.

The old library was used as a referral room, reading room, and for storage space.

The Media Center was part of a $1.3 million renovation and building project that included the new science wing. The architect was Dan F. Stowers and Whitehurst Bros. Construction Co. was the contractor.

Specialized reading was offered in room 214. Through vocabulary and controlled reading, students improved their reading speed and accuracy.

Counselors Offer More Information

Under the new program, students were more aware of the help offered by the guidance counselors. The advisor-advisee program encouraged the students to voice their questions and seek advice from their advisor and counselor.

Miss Minnie Lee Mayhan, chairman of the department, counseled seniors with their college choices and vocational training. The junior and sophomore classes were advised concerning the opportunities available in academic selections at Hall.

Office Staff Organizes School Day

Consisting of five secretaries, a registrar, and a nurse, Hall's office staff organized the important details of the school day.

Their duties included keeping up with student absences, typing bulletins, ordering supplies, bookkeeping, and taking care of federal census cards.

For the second year a campus supervisor was employed to discipline student behavior outside of the classroom.

The custodial staff, headed by John Trimble, managed the maintenance of the school grounds. The complete staff included three women and seven men.

Roy Mellor Heads Hall Population

Under the leadership of senior Roy Mellor, the student body officers worked this year to organize many aspects of the new program. The officers strongly supported the advisor-advisee program, where each faculty member served as counselor and advisor to approximately 18 students.

The officers attempted to create more school spirit by sponsoring dances during the year and taking an active part in Homecoming activities.

President Roy Mellor presided at student assemblies, served on the Principal's Cabinet and spoke at several civic affairs.

Members of the student council worked during the summer to remodel the school cafeteria into a student lounge. Furniture, carpeting and lumber were donated by several community businesses to aid in the project.

New election procedures were adopted this year to insure competent workers in the Student Council. Students wishing to be in the council were required to file for candidacy and run for the position against their classmates. Ten positions were open in each grade level. Mr. Michael Norton served as their sponsor.

Srs. Elect Mark As President

Mark Murphy led this year's class of 405 seniors by serving as president of the group. Assisting him were Melissa Mullins, vice-president, and Sherrie Brown, secretary.

Members of the class devoted much of their time working on committees to plan the class gift, prom and graduation. Candy was sold by seniors to raise money to finance the prom, which was held at Rick's Armory in May. Baccalaureate services and commencement exercises were held in early June.

Seniors took the lead in student affairs, and held the most elective positions in the school's clubs. Many members of the class were recognized for winning awards in the community.

Jrs. Take Lead In Activities

With an enrollment of 431, the junior class functioned this year as the middle class in position and in total enrollment. They came through, however, by taking an active part in school activities.

Juniors were elected to many officer positions in school organizations. This enabled them to prepare for higher leadership positions during their senior year.

The middle class led the way in many pep assemblies with juniors functioning as reserve cheerleaders and by winning the spirit stick. In a spirit competition with the seniors and sophomores, the junior class bought the most links to add to a spirit chain.

Highlighting the year for the class of '77 was the arrival of their senior rings in January. The juniors had no class officers but were represented in the Student Council by Cathy Cravens.

Sophomores Experience New School

Starting to high school in a new system proved to be a difficult task for this year's 472 sophomores.

The youngest class was faced with new responsibility in selecting their classes and choosing how to spend leisure time. With the help of teachers and advisors, they were able to plan the curriculum and schedule most beneficial to them personally.

Although sophomores held few elected positions in school activities, they took part in several clubs by participating in their projects.

Many Friday nights were spent by sophomores at Warrior games participating in the band and the Pep Club. In fact, the majority of the Pep Club consisted of sophomore girls, aspiring to be cheerleaders, Cheer-o-kees and dance team members.

Karen Hight was elected at the beginning of the year to the position of sophomore representative.

To the Reader:

It has been hard to remember a time during the school year when the 1976 WARRIOR was not the main concern of 16 of Hall's juniors and seniors. Deadlines and editors forced the staff members to work until the early hours of the morning to complete an endless task of duties. To those people who gave of their time and effort, unselfishly, I will forever be grateful.

We were especially lucky this year to have access to two classes of aspiring photographers, helping us with the picture-taking. A big "thanks" is due to Joe Dilday, Tommy Wells and Bill Nicholson who spent countless hours in the darkroom developing "last-minute" pictures.

I cannot say "thank-you" enough to our advisor, Mrs. Tom Christie, who worked with us and for us, and who kept pushing us to finish the job when we felt like giving up. A special "thanks" also goes to the Little Rock businessmen and Hall patrons who helped us to support the WARRIOR financially.

We hope this yearbook portrays 1975-76 as it was, and as you, the reader, experienced it at Hall High.

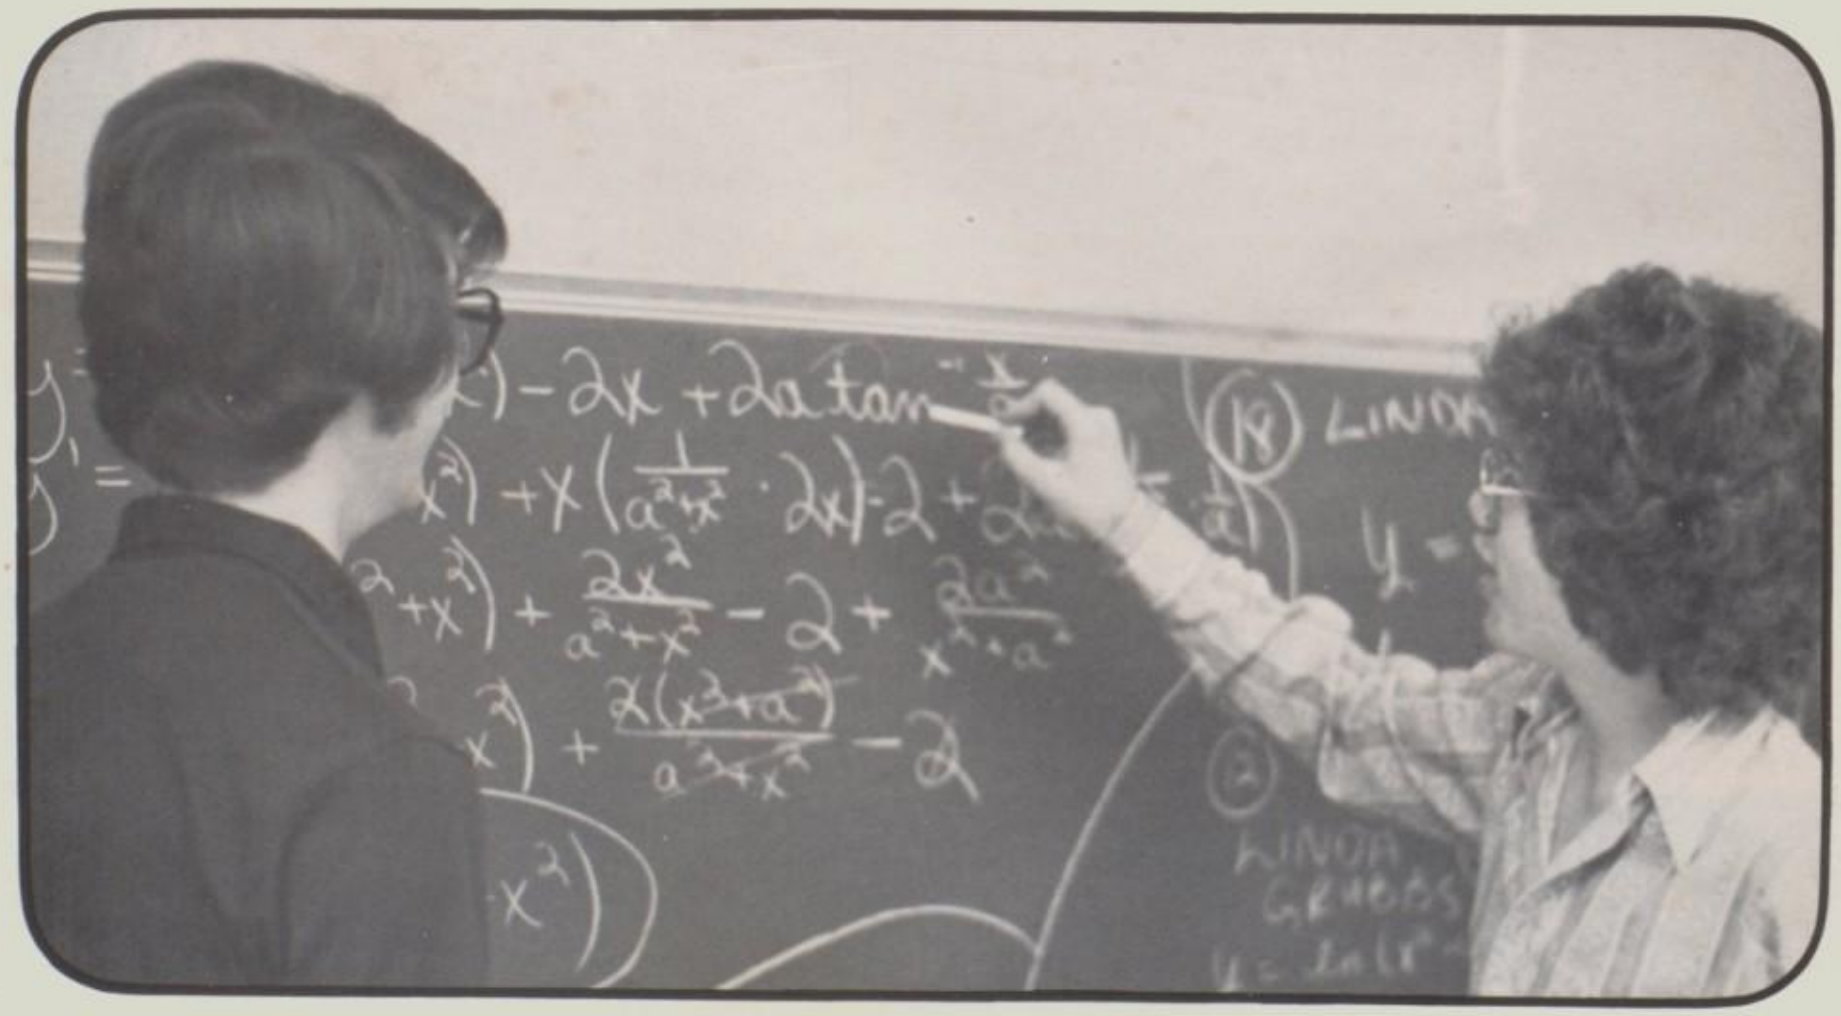
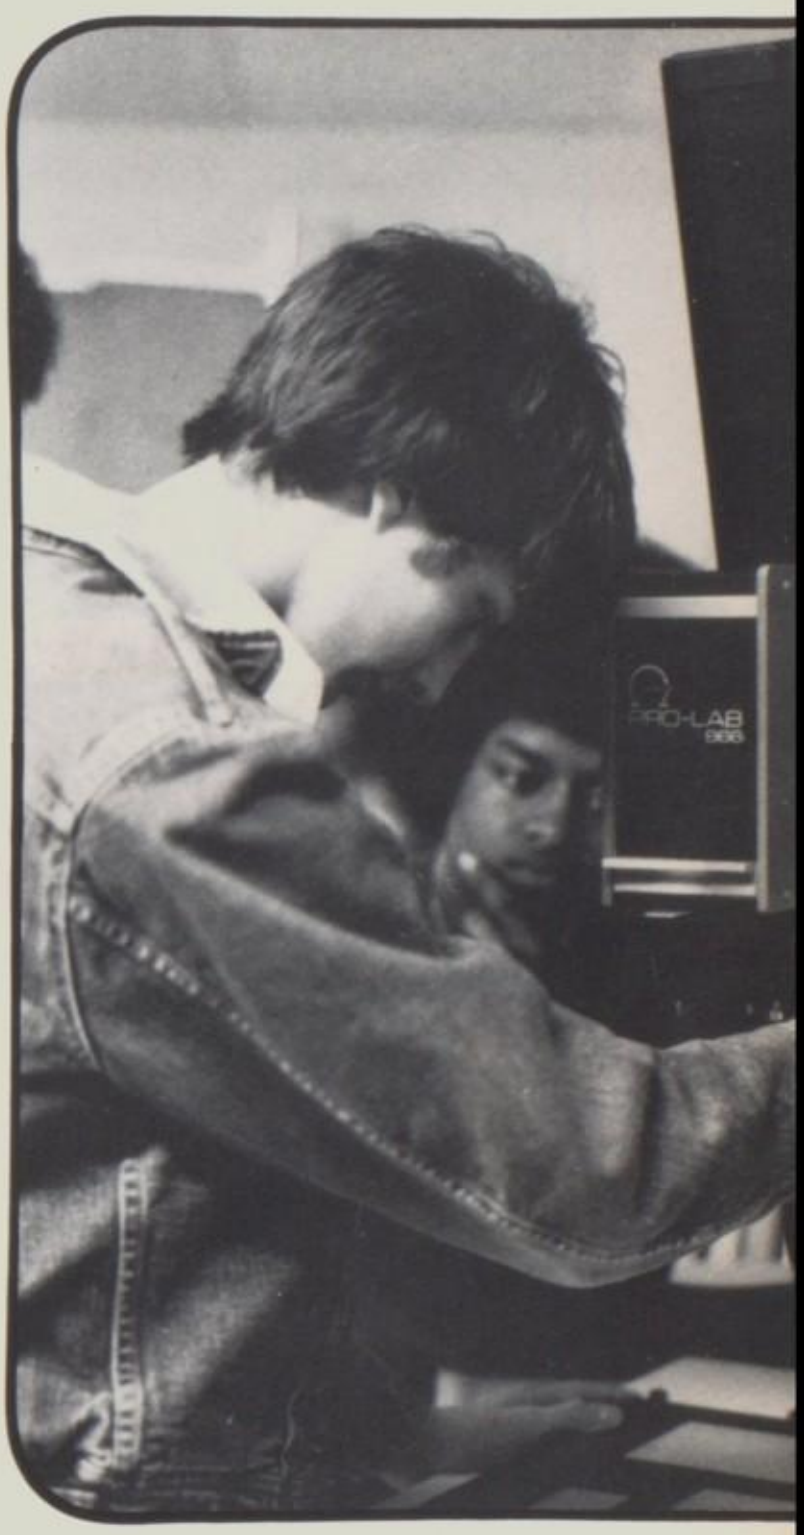
Building an Interest . . .

We have laid the foundation on which we will build our lives. During our high school years we pursued various interests. We will continue to develop and look more closely at our special interests, both academic and extra-curricular.





Building a Future . . .

Each of us will choose the direction in which we want to move after we finish high school. Many of us will start working in our own community, while others may decide to travel and see the rest of the world. Attending college or pursuing a career in sports or the armed forces are other choices.

Building a Lifestyle . . .

Our individual views of life will become more distinct as we become more independent. Each of us will find our own way of living. We will find that our time spent at Hall greatly influenced our lifestyles as adults.

Building an Awareness . . .

Our outlook on life will become broader as we continue to learn more about our changing world. We will take a more active role in resolving issues that affect us. As we become aware of the world's problems which surround us, we can decide what part we want to play in finding the solutions.

"Build" something for another world, but don't be too set on what it is, and then you won't start out that life with a disappointment. Live your life so that whenever you lose you are ahead.
